Will lawsuit cap hurt women?

SPRINGFIELD — Opponents of a Republican proposal to cap damages in civil lawsuits say it will shortchange women. The reforms would limit the amount of money people harmed through a doctor's negligence could receive for "pain and suffering." "When, women seek medical attention, they are often underdiagnosed," said Susan Schnirring, president of the Alton-Edwardsville Schnirring, a registered nurse, said doctors tend to give men a wide variety of tests when they complain of pain, while women do not get as many. "(Women's) symptoms are often put off to other causes such as hormones or anxiety," she said. # Gardening Tips from the experts at

RANK'S

Ithough spring is officially about six weeks away, you should begin planning your outdoor garden.
No, it's not too early at all. In fact this time of year offers many advantages.

Once you know your garden plan, you can begin buying items. Flower and vegetable seed selections are at their best now, since so many people wait until spring. This year, the assortment of seeds at Frank's is the best it's ever been. And, don't forget that Prank's stores are generally more crowded in spring.

Shopping early also permits a strain on the gardening budget. It can get rather tough if you wait until spring and hux everything all at and buy everything all at once. Buy a little every week instead. Come spring, you'll have all or most of what you need, without taking an inconveniently large chunk out of your budget.

As for current chores, broadleaf evergreens should receive their second coats of anti-desiccant sometime this anti-desiccant sometime this month. Drying winter winds and bright sunlight can still cause damage to plants through excessive moisture loss from leaves. An anti-desiccant serves as a barrier to help prevent this water loss.

On a bright, cheery day, make a tour of your landscape to check on winter mulches. Make sure they're still in place, and the plants are winterizing well. Be sure to check perennials. If melting snow or water run-off has formed puddles, take measures to provide drainage, such as by digging a mini ditch, Puddles at plants' bases will prevent air from reaching roots, and when the water freezes around their crowns, more around their crowns, more damage will result.

Check bulbs, corms and tubers in storage. Rotted or diseased ones should be discarded before they affect others. If begonia tubers have started to sprout, remove sprouts that are a half inch long or more, as they will up food stored in the tuber Later on, closer to the time when rooting should be started, new sprouts will have developed.

Some early spring flowering bulbs, especially those in protected areas with protected areas with southern exposures, may begin to grow prematurely. Since cold temperatures are still in the offing, cover the bulbs with three inches of peat or vermiculite as soon seath the of the bulbs. as the tips of the bulbs appear above the soil surface, but before the leaves begin to separate.

If you have started to feed the birds, make sure you continue to do so. They've become dependent on your help. Frank's has a wide variety of wild bird seeds available. Try setting suet cakes out also. Birds utilize suet to help them keep warm.

If you absolutely must stop feeding the birds, try to do so gradually so they can find another source of food.

Periods of mild weather may occur this month, especially toward the end. Use it to prune plants. Avoid pruning plants that flower in early spring, as their blooms are produced from buds set on last year's growth. Pruning now will remove the flower buds and reduce your spring display, Don't prune roses yet, though. Wait until any danger of winter damage is yet, though. Wait until any danger of winter damage is past.

Another way make good use of milder weather is to begin a dormant spray use or inflitter weather is to begin a dormant spray protection program for plants. Voick oil and line sulfur sprays can be used on dormant roses, fruit trees and overwintering insects and diseases. To be effective, these applications must be made before new growth begins, and the temperature must be above freezing long. must be above freezing long enough for the sprays to dry

My view

Chocoholic confesses his hopeless desires

Don

Miller

In the past, most Americans tended to keep their personal diosyncracies rather quiet. But in recent years, the trend has been for those with the standard the truth. I'm a cho-coholic, hopelessly additted to chowolate in all its shapes and coholic, hopelessly addicted to chocolate in all its shapes and forms controlled to the coholic controlled to the coholic coho sweet chocolate. Nothing is sacred to a chocoholic needing a fix!

Science and the medical profession are just now understand. Science and the medical profession are just in with the chocolate addiction, and a book, "Chocolate addiction, and a book, "Chocolate addiction, and a book, "Chocolate addiction, and a book with their addiction with programming chocolate in the consuming Passion," has been published to help chocolate is bad for your teeth. A recent study shows, "In contrast to popular expectations, a cooon powder contrast to popular expectations, a cooon powder carles-inhibiting effect when added to diets." The absolutely unbiased study was conducted by the Chocolate Manufacturers Association in 1978 conducted by the Chocolate on the conduction of the discovery that chocolate continue, that is virtually identical to the discovery that chocolate continue, that is virtually identical to tured by the brain of an infatuated individual. This is ridiculous. So what if I would rather spend the night with Sara Lee than Brooke Shields. This doesn't prove any Myth No.3: Chocolate is an aphrodisiac. Actually, this is true. However, I can't discuss it in a family newspaper. The most that I can say is that Casanova user, and chocoholics tend to be very, ah, affectionate. Chocolate use has a definite correlation to personality. Chocolate users are more pleasant. Chocolate users are more pleasant correlation to personality. Chocolate users are more pleasant with the correlation of the correlation to personality. Chocolate users. For example, the Swiss have devoted much of their time and effort to the manufacture of their time and effort to the manufacture. The art of having thought-proThe art of having thought-proparting in partisan politics is favored all month. Your dinnertable conversations reflects this, as kids ask Mom and Dad lots of difficult, one parents encourage the curiosity, even if they dodge direct responses on some personal issues. Favored activities are going to the library and planties (March 21-April 19).
Watch for your chance to make a deal — the week ahead is full of meetings, and an opportunity comes unexpect to think before jumping to conclusions in emotional matters.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20).
New friends are weiting to help of income and power — being ready is your job. Get your wardrobe and health in shape for a fast-paced week ahead.
DGEMIN. (May 21-June 21).
Strife in family matters may be upsetting, but you can be the peacemaker now, especially where kids are concerned. Your your key is your key to success now and through next week.

CANCER (June 22-July 22).
Settling past issues with old friends and past employers can clear a path for opportunity.

display and imagine what it could do for you as a driver or passenger."

In place of today's metal key is a tiny transmitter, much like today's remote keyless entry. Frogrammed for each individual the push of a button, unlock the vehicle and immediately adjust the seats, steering column; mirrors, climate control and entertainment system to settings cho-called Customer's Choice, this feature even can adjust the way the car drives, by tailoring the steering effort, suspension feel, engine response and transmission of the individual driver.

Once under way, the XP2000 provides the driver with a broad range of options.

Sensors under the car can link

Seat belts are integrated with the seat structures. To further protect the occupants, XP2000 has eight air bags. The familiar air bags in the steering wheel and passenger side of the instru-ment panel are joined by air bags on the back of each front seat, which help protect rear seat passengers. In addition, side impact protection is enhanced by air bags in the front and rear door panels. As an added safety feature, the car's computers can be programmed to automatically place services — even to the driver's personal physician — if there is an accident serious enough to activate the cir bags. The XP2000 has a number of new technologies designed to make an accident less likely.

Adaptive Cruise Control calcu-lates the distance to the vehicle in front of XP2000, and allows the driver to adjust the cruise control to automatically main-tain a set, safe distance.

Variety of vehicles on hand at Greater St. Louis International Auto Show

Thirty-one domestic and for-eign manufacturers will bring more than 500 new 1995 cars, vans and light trucks to the 13th annual Greater St. Louis Inter-national Auto Show Feb. 8 through 12 at the Cervantes Con-vention Center in downtown St. Louis.

Louis.

The show is sponsored by the Greater St. Louis Automotive Association Inc. Selected auto show highlights include:
ACURA: It's a refurbishing year for Acura's entry-level coupes and sedans, with the LS sedan receiving a power moonroof as standard equipment.

Both sedans and coupes are offered as Special Edition models: that include leather and performance tires on 15-inch allow Acura's Legend virtually is unchanged for the new year. The original Acura coupes and sedans will wear two new exterior colors (Cayman White Pearl and Garnet Red Pearl), with a Special Edition scheduled later this year.

The news about the small Audi, referred to internally as the A4 rather than the 90, is that all-wheel-drive is available as an option even on the least expensive model. The former Audi 100s, now the A6, has been freshened up and sports a new grille, restyled headlights and tail lamps, clear sidelight covers, body-color side moldings, front rear fascia and bumpers. Front rear fascia and bumpers from last year's model, offers a wider range of colors.

BMW: After last year's introduction of the 3-series convertible, BMW is sending a three door hatchback known in Europe door hatchback known in Europe Liter 138-hp, 16-valve inline-4 engine, same as the 318i. It will
